INTRODUCTION

Hi there!

My name is Kymberley Pekrul, and I'm a Certified Health & Lifestyle Coach, Gluten-Free Nutrition Specialist, Foodie Blogger & Wellpreneur at gfreedeliciously.com.

I've been on a journey with food and cooking my whole life. From an early love of peanut butter and pickle sandwiches to more sophisticated grownup discoveries of ethnic and regional cuisines from across the U.S. where I lived and visited over the years.

For me, food has always been the center of family and community, followed by the close second of the dining room table where my culinary triumphs and failures are shared. The bottom line is that I love delicious food. Real food.

In 2007 I faced my first unchosen food 'detour' when a quick stop for a fast-food hamburger changed my life forever. It wasn't the hamburger, but rather the series of medical events that followed my eating it that impacted me, my identity, every area, belief, and thought I've ever given to food and my way of life. I learned that I was celiac with a severe allergy to wheat.

The days and years to come became about accessing everything I had ever known about food, ingredients, cooking, and health to re-program my core beliefs to be able to nourish my body, soul, and life to live happily gluten-free without restrictions.

Fast forward to today, where my purpose is to inspire people, just like you, to make healthier choices to nourish and feed your body and soul, your life, and your family; by rewriting your relationship with food while eating gluten-free.

It's my passion to help people create healthy gluten-free opportunities for feeling better, know what and what-not to eat, eliminate food confusion, find answers, and develop confidence for living life without restrictions.

Ready to jump in? I am!
XXO,

THE SKINNY ON SALADS

Imagine a salad a day that nourishes you and gives you the nutrients you need.

Fruits and vegetables are considered to be the world's healthiest foods. These foods are enriched with nourishing health properties, making them a must-have in your diet plan. You have heard your doctor's advice to incorporate fruits and vegetables into your diet plan for many reasons—and you know they are not wrong.

Everyone is familiar with the general health benefits of eating fruits and vegetables, but did you know that the color of the vegetables and fruits indicates their health properties? The colors assigned to vegetables and fruits are more likely to supply nutrients and health benefits crucial to our bodies. If you indulge in a selection of colorful meals, then you can provide your body with the wellness and nutrients that it craves.

Let's have a look at this list of healthy vegetables to learn how the color contributes to our overall health:

RED FOR PHYTOCHEMICALS

A majority of red-colored fruits and vegetables are chock-full of high phytochemical properties, which generally include anthocyanins and lycopene. These two elements are pigments responsible for adding vibrant red color to fruits and vegetables like watermelon, raspberries, tomatoes, strawberries, and red peppers. You should consider eating red fruits and veggies for the following reasons:

- It eradicates damaging free radicals from your body

YELLOW AND ORANGE FOR CAROTENOIDS

A majority of yellow and orange fruits are abundant with carotenoids—a type of pigment. The scope of orange and yellow fruits and vegetables includes sweet potatoes, carrots, oranges, mangoes, and lemons. These fruits and vegetables can improve your health in the following ways:

GREEN FOR ANTIOXIDANTS

The presence of chlorophyll in fruits and vegetables imparts a green color to them. Such fruits and vegetables are jam-packed with antioxidant properties, which are beneficial for your health in numerous ways. It is why you often are asked to eat green vegetables like spinach, broccoli, zucchini, lettuce, and kiwi. Such vegetables are responsible for:

- It is vital for the detoxification of the body
- It improves the process of healing and repairing your tissues
- It promotes the growth of digestive enzymes
- It reduces the risk of cancer

PURPLE AND BLUE FOR RESVERATROL

The pigments, resveratrol, and anthocyanin are responsible for adding blue and purple color to a select few vegetables and fruits like eggplant, blueberries, blackberries, purple cabbage, plums, and much more. These vegetables do the following:

- It promotes the longevity of your cells
- It decreases the risk of Alzheimer's
- It is responsible for boosting memory
- Its antioxidant properties protect the cell from radical damage

I am so excited to help you make eating healthy easy as 1-2-3. Salads are so yummy but often we think of them as a diet food. Diets DO NOT work.

Diets lead to deprivation.

Diets lead to binges.

I believe in whole foods, clean eating and foods that give you energy.

It is time to have some healthy fun in the kitchen.
